Side Notes: My earliest memories of singing come from singing with my mother at home and with other kids at church. More than forty years later, I still spend a good portion of my Sundays playing piano for children to sing at chuch. I've also spent many hours in my studio helping bring new children's songs to life with our Tonioli Studio Children's choir. Many of my favorite songs are built on the simplest melodies and messages that many consider children's songs... yet these songs tend to stick with you.

This simple melody and message is one I remember singing as a child. I decided to add two additional verses of my own to the song that I think help further the message that many of us need to hear and be reminded of.
